

Heather M. Gioia is the creator of Herbal Baby™ and founder of GetThatBaby.com. She has a bachelor's degree in psychology and master's degree in clinical psychology from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Michigan. She is currently a candidate for a Doctorate in Natural Health from the Clayton College of Natural Health. Heather has also studied energy therapy, Reiki, and Emotional Freedom Techniques (EFT) in Hong Kong and is a member of Resolve: The National Fertility Association, The American Herbalists Guild and The American Botanical Counsel.

Heather's diverse background was spurred by an insatiable hunger for knowledge and personal adversity. After three years of suffering the emotional, physical, and psychological torment of infertility, Heather took matters into her own hands. She leveraged her many years of cross-disciplinary study to naturally overcome her infertility. She ultimately created Herbal Baby, a proprietary herbal tincture, for her own use. After approximately one month, she learned she had her first viable pregnancy; Herbal Baby was born. Today she has two healthy children and has made it her career ambition to help women and families in similar situations.

In the United States alone, more than seven million women are experiencing infertility. At GetThatBaby.com, through thoughtful and practical blog posts and compelling testimonials, Heather strives to create an atmosphere of empathy and hope for all who wish to stop by. Visit www.GetThatBaby.com and experience how others have boosted their fertility naturally with Herbal Baby.

